

KONOYE REVEALS 1941 PEACE EFFORT

NAVY WARNED
HOURS BEFORE
PEARL HARBOREXPERT ADVISED
SENDING WORD
TO U. S. FLEET

BY TOM REEDY
Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—A naval intelligence expert testified today he wanted the U. S. fleet warned four hours before the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor. He said he so advised the chief of naval operations, Admiral Harold R. Stark.

This testimony was given to congressional Pearl Harbor investigators by Vice Admiral Theodore S. Wilkinson, chief of naval intelligence immediately before and after the December 7, 1941, attack. As deputy to Admiral William F. Halsey later, Wilkinson plotted the coup that resulted in shooting down Admiral Yamamoto, the Japanese navy chief.

"Fighting Words" Delivered
Describing receipt of the 14th part of the Japanese message to Secretary of State Hull the morning of December 7, Wilkinson testified:

"It was brought in to me at my office about 9 o'clock in the morning. To me, they were fighting words. They meant more than breaking off negotiations. 'I went to see Admiral Stark in his office about 9:15 a. m. I pointed out the seriousness of that language. I advised that the fleet be notified.'

Wilkinson pointed out that this was before the navy had intercepted the Japanese message ordering their ambassadors to deliver the reply to Hull at 1 p. m. which turned out to be nearly coincident with the Pearl Harbor bombing.

He said he didn't think expressly of an attack on Pearl Harbor, that the navy never had any indication one would occur there. His warning to the fleet, Wilkinson said, was to be of a general character.

Stark tried to call General of the Army George C. Marshall, Wilkinson recalled, and couldn't reach him.

Message Too Late
The committee has had testimony that Admiral Stark at first disagreed with General Marshall on the wisdom of sending a new warning that morning on the ground it might be "confusing."

Marshall determined to send one shortly before noon and said Stark asked him to route it to naval officers, also. That was done but it arrived in Hawaii while the bombs were dropping. Marshall said he learned of the Japanese message after 11 a. m. Earlier in his testimony Wilkinson told of seeing in 1941 a Japanese code message dividing Pearl Harbor into five areas, but said he did not recognize it as the precise bombing plan it turned out to be.

"It is now apparent that it was a plan, not only of a bombing target, but also for midget submarine activity."

"I did not—I regret now—attribute the bombing target significance which now appears."

The message intercepted by U. S. code-crackers was sent by Tokyo to Honolulu September 24, decoded by the navy finally on October 9, 1941. It ordered Japanese agents there to chart the waters of Pearl Harbor in five areas with details on exactly what ships were at anchor and where, which were tied up at wharves, docks and buoys by types.

Secret Kept
The admiral told the committee that by the end of November, 1941, the navy had "every indication" that the Japanese were preparing for hostilities.

There was "not the slightest"

No Quick Solution
Found For Acute
Housing Situation

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—The CIO today endorsed the administration's appeal for price ceilings on houses, but a spokesman for home builders said such controls would "emasculate the industry."

While labor and management delegates to a government-sponsored housing conference clashed on this point, they joined in recommending that it be made clear to the public there can be no quick solution of the housing shortage.

These were other highlights at the opening session of the two-day conference called at the direction of reconstruction boss John W. Snyder.

1. Both the CIO and the American Federation of Labor contended construction workers are underpaid and that this is a major obstacle to home building.

2. An industry representative said that if steel workers strike as scheduled it would mean "virtual stoppage" of home construction.

3. The AFL recommended that veterans be given an over-riding priority for building materials, and that such supplies be earmarked for homes costing $7,000 or less rather than $10,000 or under as planned.

4. The CIO urged that congress authorize publicly financed "decent permanent housing" wherever private enterprise "is not ready or able to provide it."

5. Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small called on industry to use wartime ingenuity in turning to substitutes for scarce building materials.

GRAIN SHIPPING
BREAKS RECORD

Total Of 17,840,560 Tons
Moved On Great Lakes
April 1 To Dec. 1

Cleveland, Dec. 17 (AP)—Grain movement totaling 17,840,560 tons—a new all-time record for the Great Lakes bulk cargo fleet—was announced today by the Lake Carriers' Association.

The record tonnage covered the period from April 1 to December 1. The report said the figure was approximately 1½ million tons greater than last season's total and with the down-lake movement still in progress.

Shipment of coal for November amounted to 6,834,008 tons, which was 1½ million tons over the tonnage moved in the same month during the record 1944 season. The record in 1944 was 53,502,042 tons. This year's total as over December 1 was 48,538,103 tons.

Iron ore tonnage as of December 1 was 84,720,961 compared with the 1942 record of 101,526,152 tons.

With this season's figures not complete, the association said the volume of iron ore, coal and grain to December 1 was approximately 1½ million tons over the comparable figure for the war year of 1943 and less than nine million tons under last season's highest total in history.

Storms Delay Ships
Bringing GI's Home

Aboard The USS Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—Storms today slowed the progress of the battleship Washington which is bringing 1,500 high point soldiers from Europe to New York.

Following the Washington was the cruiser Portland, out of Le Havre, and ahead of these two ships was the carrier Champlain.

The Washington shipped water as she battled waves churned up by winds reaching 87 miles an hour. Approximately half the GI's aboard were seasick.

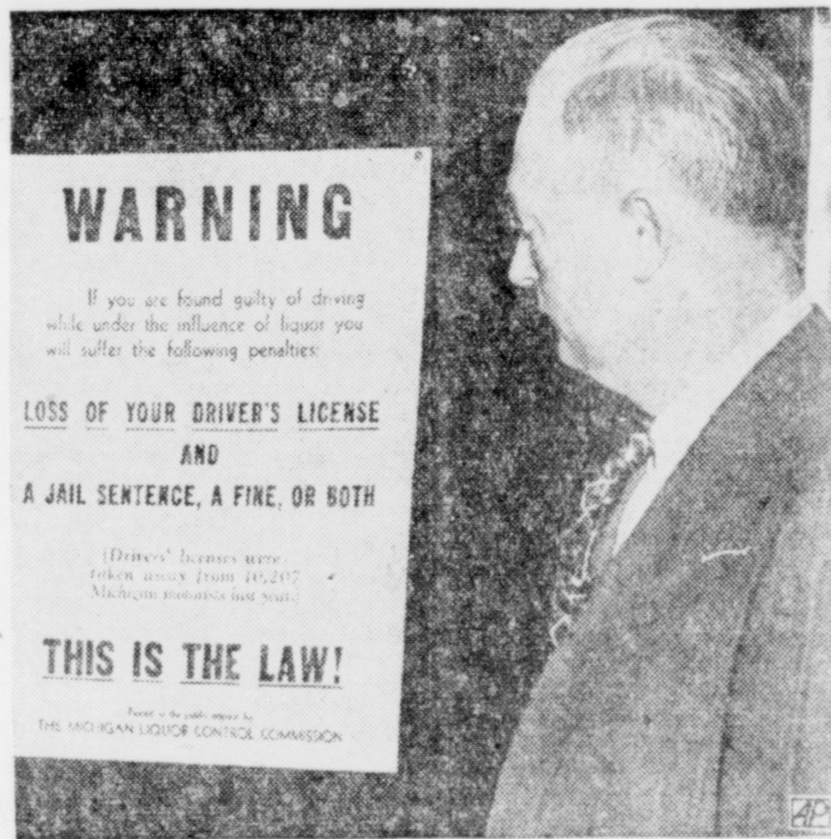

The battleship was forced at times to cut her speed to seven knots. For a while Sunday she travelled southward in an attempt to skirt the storms and make better time in her race to bring the soldiers home in time for Christmas.

Newsprint Control
Goes Off Dec. 31

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Civilian Production Administration has decided to lift newsprint control Dec. 31, it was learned today, but the decision must be approved by Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder.

Government officials who know about CPA's decision, but who asked anonymity, said Snyder may make his position known tomorrow.

Members of the newspaper industry advisory committee have twice recommended that all newsprint ration controls be lifted at the year's end.

SAFE DRINKING URGED — John P. Aaron, of Detroit, chairman of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, inspects the first of a series of posters which the commission will place in licensed drinking places to educate the public toward safe drinking habits. The poster warns that loss of driver's license, a jail sentence and a fine may be the penalty for drunken drivers.

World Organization With Strong Military Backing
Advocated By Lindbergh

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, a pre-war non-interventionist, called tonight for a world organization backed by military power and guided by the "qualities represented in Christian ideals."

"I have advocated tonight a world organization backed by military power," the noted flier said, "an organization led by western peoples who developed modern science with its aviation and its atomic bomb."

"But I must confess to you that I am fearful of the use of power. I plead for strong military forces only because I believe the alternative is worse."

"If we are able to prevent the misuse of power based on aircraft and atomic energy in the future, that will mark a greater epoch in human relationships than their invention marked in science," Lindbergh told an Aero club dinner marking the 42nd anniversary of the Wright Brothers' flight.

"Yet if we fail, the penalty is staggering. We can succeed only by organizing all nations toward this end. For we must face the fact that aircraft and the atomic bomb have brought us to a time when we will either live in an organized world or in constant insecurity."

"To me, it is no longer a question of whether or not we should have world organization, but of what form it should take. x x x I do not believe it would be wise even if it were possible for this country to dominate the world by force."

Lindbergh, "Lone Eagle" of pioneer trans-Atlantic flying and one of the all-time "greats" among pilots, made his first public address since 1941, the year he resigned his colonel's commission because he was "greatly disturbed," he said then, by President Roosevelt's implications "concerning my loyalty to my country."

Last month he issued a statement supporting "in principle" proposals to share the atomic secret if effective United Nations controls were set up.

"In this age of split seconds and splitting atoms, a world organization must have immediate and overwhelming strength at its disposal. x x x a successful military movement must prevent rather than win an atomic war."

Closing with reference to the Christian code requiring "integrity, humility and compassion that are lacking all over this post-war world," Lindbergh said these ideals "cannot be left alone to church and clergy. They must live in the philosophy of a nation, in the policies of a world organization, in the use of science and its great inventions."

LABOR DISPUTE
BOARD STUMPED

Fact-Finding Experiment
Produces Confusion
At Opening Hearing

BY WILLIAM NEEDHAM
Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—The government's first experiment in use of fact-finding to settle a labor dispute nearly bogged down today on the relation of profits and prices to labor demands for wage increases.

Temporarily refusing to settle the question, the "guinea pig" oil wage fact-finding board recessed until tomorrow with the announced intention of putting its trouble before Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach and Economic Stabilizer John C. Collet.

The board's opening hearing produced considerable confusion, with sharp disagreement between oil industry spokesmen and representatives of the Oil Workers Union. Finally the discussion became so technical that the board summoned labor department legal experts for help.

Subsequently Chairman Frank P. Graham told reporters the panel was moving slowly better case it had no precedent. The oil board is regarded as the prototype for the panel which begins hearings Wednesday in the General Motors strike, and a fact-finding board yet to be appointed in the steel wage dispute.

Extension Of V-12
Training Proposed

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—House passage sent to the White House today legislation permitting the navy to continue its V-12 training program until next June 30.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee said the program would end next March unless Congress passed the legislation, giving the navy authority to spend an additional $10,000,000 for the training.

Weather bureau forecasters held out some hope tonight that the pre-winter cold wave would end Wednesday.

The nation counted more than 27 deaths caused by temperatures that pushed icy blasts as far south as Texas and Georgia.

A Great Lakes freighter, the S. S. Watt, was virtually icebound for several hours today at the mouth of the Detroit river.

PAY PENALTY
FOR TIEUP, GM
DEMAND SAYSSTIPULATIONS SENT UNION FOR NEW CONTRACT

Detroit, Dec. 17 (AP)—A demand that "appropriate penalties" be provided against employees participating in work stoppages that violate contract provisions was made upon the CIO United Workers today by General Motors Corp.

The demand was contained in a letter to the union with more than a dozen stipulations the corporation said must be included in a collective bargaining agreement with the UAW-CIO. The letter was made public by the management as discussions of new contract proposals, including the union demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase, were resumed.

Kaiser Negotiates
The UAW-CIO, led by President R. J. Thomas, submitted what is termed a "standard proposal" at the opening of negotiations with the newly formed Kaiser-Frazier Corp.

The company, through Edward D. Riordan, director of industrial relations, said it will submit its lists on proposals, including its request for a guarantee of company security, at the next meeting Thursday.

Both sides termed today's initial conference "Satisfying." They would not enlarge on the provisions of the union contract proposal nor would Thomas say whether it embodied a 30 per cent wage increase demand.

Personal Attacks Hit
The new General Motors agreement, management there said, must include a stipulation "that there be appropriate penalties, including loss of seniority, against any employee taking part in any strike or work stoppage in violation of the agreement."

Also demanded was "an adequate guarantee that the union will make good on its pledge to eliminate personal attacks, false accusations and vilification of management through union publications, handbills, literature and releases; and that the international union as bargaining agent shall accept full responsibility for all items pertaining to management in such publications and releases."

Another stipulation advanced by the corporation would provide that "wages, hours of employment and other conditions of employment are subject to collective bargaining."

The management also stipulated that "the products to be manufactured"

Total Moon Eclipse
Promised Tonight;
Starting Time 6:30

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—A total eclipse of the moon will be visible—weather permitting—in the United States tomorrow night.

The eclipse will start at 7:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time) and will end at 11:03 p. m. The period of totality will be from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. During this time when the moon passes completely into the shadow of the earth the satellite assumes a dull, coppery red color.

On the west coast the moon will already be partially eclipsed when it rises.

Marquette Resident
Hurt In Iowa City
Railroad Accident

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 17 (AP)—Two persons were in serious condition here tonight as the result of this morning's train wreck in which seven cars of the Rock Island's Rocky Mountain Rocket left the tracks 12 miles west of here.

Nine others were hospitalized and about 25 persons suffered bruises and minor injuries.

Travel on the line was resumed today.

One of those in a "serious but not critical condition," according to a railroad physician, was Clarence De Pras, Marquette, Mich., who suffered internal injuries of an undetermined nature.

Charles Ford, Detroit, Mich., was hospitalized and Mrs. Charles Neidert, Flint, Mich., and Ronald Weidert, Wayne, Mich., were released today.

Detroit police also investigated the death of a woman, not yet identified. They believe she may have frozen to death in an alleyway between two houses.

A quirk of the cold wave sent 48 inches of snow to Buffalo, N. Y., where traffic ground to a complete standstill and business activities were virtually suspended.

Buffalo's mayor declared an emergency, closed all schools, and limited phone calls to a minimum.

Record low temperatures for the date were reported through the midwest, east and south. Chicago recorded six below and Richmond, Va., shivered at 13.7.

Chattanooga, Tenn., saw the coldest early December since 1901 with 11 degrees.

Freezing weather extended from Texas to Georgia, and Miami's 47 was a season low.

Newark Tube Train
Rams Open Bridge;
One Dead, 46 Hurt

Newark, N. J., Dec. 17 (AP)—The motorman of a Hudson & Manhattan tube train was crushed to death and 46 passengers were injured here tonight when the train, loaded with home-bound commuters, crashed into the east end of a Passaic river lift bridge between Harrison and Newark at about 6:27 p. m.

Emergency railroad crews, rushed to the scene, worked for three hours with acetylene torches in the near-zero temperatures to extricate the train's conductor and two passengers trapped in the wreckage. Their cries for help could be heard at the Harrison tube station 500 feet up the track.

Railroad officials identified the dead motorman as Michael J. Mullin, 36, of the Bronx, N. Y. Names of the trapped persons were not available.

An unidentified Catholic priest, who climbed a 50-foot embankment to the elevated railroad, administered the last rites of the church to the motorman, whose body still was jammed in the cab of the train. Work crews estimated it would be at least another hour before they could free the trapped persons and longer before they could reach the motorman.

Harrison and Newark fire departments played floodlights on the wreckage as emergency police crews lowered the injured by ropes to waiting ambulances. Police crews had to cut their way through a 10-foot high iron fence around the Otis Elevator Co. property adjoining the railroad to reach the wreck.

Emergency ambulances from the Newark Red Cross, army airport and police and fire departments rushed the injured to Newark hospitals while Red Cross first aid squads at the scene treated scores of passengers who were shaken up.

Newark Police Chief Phil Sebold said the lift bridge had approximately four feet open at the time of the crash. The front car jammed into the opening and buckled in the middle as the second car partially telescoped into it, he said.

Scores of passengers were injured from flying pieces of broken glass, Sebold said.

Service on the Pennsylvania railroad between New York and Newark was not affected, he said, since the Hudson & Manhattan bridge is separate from the two PRR bridges.

Hundreds of Harrison and Newark residents had gathered at the Harrison tube station within a short time after the wreck, police reported, and were frantically searching among the injured for missing relatives expected to arrive on the rush hour trains.

The tube trains shuttle back and forth between Newark and New York, passing under the Hudson river and emerging into the open in Jersey City. They then remain above ground, passing over the Hackensack and the Passaic rivers before they reach Newark.

Kollock, S. C., Dec. 17 (AP)—The collision of the Seaboard Air Line's Florida-bound Silver Meteor and north-bound Sun Queen here in the sub-freezing pre-dawn Sunday cost six lives and left many still hospitalized today.

It was first feared that more had been killed but General Manager J. C. Wooten of the Seaboard at Norfolk, after a check today, placed the death toll at six.

The Sun Queen was pulling into a siding at this northeast South Carolina hamlet at 3:45 a. m. when the Meteor, racing through the darkness, crashed into it, derailling five cars on each train and the Meteor's locomotive.

Wooten said that W. W. Shoemaker of Raleigh, N. C., Silver Meteor engineer, apparently "lost his life because he failed to see that the north-bound train was not clear of the main tracks."

Wooten said an investigation was underway.

The dead Shoemaker, James Ferrell of Richmond, Va., Sun Queen porter, Perry Clayton Reese, Alexandria, Va., Frank G. Turner, discharged army staff sergeant of Gibsonia, Pa., and two sailors whose names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Many of the more than 60 injured had been discharged from hospitals at Hamlet, N. C., Bennettsville, S. C., and the Lenoir-Burman-Maxton (N. C.) army air base.

Refuge Harbor
PLAN PROPOSED

Creation Of Waterways
Commission Sought
By Gov. Kelly

Lansing, Dec. 17 (AP)—Governor Kelly announced today he would ask the special session of the legislature to create a Michigan waterways commission, financed by a special tax, to supervise navigation on Great Lakes waterways.

Kelly said he was making the proposal at this time because "it is imperative that this legislature take action" on the general program to construct 15 harbors of refuge in Michigan waters, at a cost to the state of $932,150.

The proposed commission would be similar in form to the aeronautics commission and would be empowered to handle all matters pertaining to navigation on waterways. Its activities would be financed by a gallonage tax on combustible fuels used for marine purposes and a registration and annual license fee for small craft.

Kelly emphasized that "boats playing inland lakes would not be affected."

The harbors of refuge would be constructed so there would be one port every 30 miles for light craft. The state's share of the project would be $441,160 for construction and $91,200 for the necessary land and equipment. The federal government's share of the cost would be $1,198,335, Kelly said.

The plan, drawn up by army engineers, calls for harbors at Port Sanilac, Port Austin, Point Lookout, Oscoda, Harrisville, Hammond Bay, Beaver Island, Whitefish Point, Little Lake, Big Bay, Grand Traverse Bay, Lac La Belle, Eagle Harbor, Black River, and Chippewa Harbor on Isle Royale.

Conference Booked
On Trade Education
In Escanaba Jan. 3

Lansing, Dec. 17 (AP)—Four regional conferences for coordinators of trade and industrial education have been scheduled by the state department of public instruction, it was announced today.

The conferences will be held at Escanaba, Jan. 3, 4, 5; Grand Haven, Jan. 16, 17, 18; Mt. Pleasant, Jan. 23, 24, 25; and Pontiac, Feb. 13, 14, 15.

PRICE CEILINGS REFUSED
Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—Stabilization Director John C. Collet today rejected OPA's demand for immediate restoration of price ceilings on fresh citrus fruits.

A company announcement said the installation of presses for body manufacture at Willow Run will start within the next 60 days.

WAR BLAMED
ON 'BAD MOOD'
OF MATSUOKAPRINCE WINDS UP
MEMOIRS BEFORE
TAKING POISON

Editors Note: This story is based on the memoirs of Prince Fumimaro Konoye, premier of Japan when that country and the United States were seeking means to avert war. Konoye committed suicide Sunday, Dec. 16, rather than submit to American arrest.

BY MURLIN SPENCER
Tokyo, Dec. 17 (AP)—Top Japanese officials accepted "in principle" an American compromise plan to solve differences with Japan eight months before Pearl Harbor but it was blocked by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka because he was in a "bad mood."

Prince Fumimaro Konoye declared in memoirs completed shortly before his suicide yesterday.

The plan was approved in general by leaders who included the war and navy ministers, only to be stalled by the sole opposition of Matsuoka until it was made useless by misunderstandings and deterioration of relations, Konoye wrote in his lengthy political testament detailing Japan's side of the negotiations which preceded the war.

Notified To Resign
Konoye, the prince who was three times his country's premier, the last time in the tense summer of 1941, reported:

1. The late President Roosevelt suggested a tentative date—some time in October—and a place, possibly Juneau, Alaska, for a personal meeting with Konoye to discuss peace. (It was in mid-October, however, that Japan by an imperial conference decision began preparing for war, and Gen. Hideki Tojo notified Konoye it was time for his cabinet to resign. Tojo succeeded him.)

2. Japanese naval leaders were fearful of a Pacific war but unwilling to oppose officially the army's demand for it.

3. The then foreign minister Matsuoka was blamed by Konoye as suffering from Jingoism and pro-Germanism, plus "a bad mood" which led to sabotaging acceptance of the compromise plan (Matsuoka, who also has been listed as a war criminal suspect by General MacArthur, held the view, Konoye said as far back as May, 1941, that Roosevelt had already decided on official United States entry into the European war.)

4. Talks on adjustment of American-Japanese relations had been under way unofficially since December, 1940, with former U. S. Postmaster General Frank Walker in one of the key roles. He said both President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull were informed of the conversations.

Chinese Problem First
From these private, unofficial talks, Konoye wrote, came on April 4 a "first trial plan" which the Japanese modified slightly in a "second trial plan." Hull and Nomura held the first talks on April 16.

Konoye's description of this program said it was based upon an American promise to help ob-

MERCURY HIT 2 BELOW HERE

Snap May Continue But
No Severe Cold Is Anticipated

Although the temperature here dropped once to two below zero (about 8 o'clock Sunday morning) over the weekend and the present cold snap may continue for a few more days, Henry E. Hathaway, weather bureau chief here, says, Escanaba fared better than many other points in the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin where the mercury dropped to as much as 15 below. Highest weekend temperature here was 13 above.

Sunday's sub-zero drop compared to a four above registered at a year ago.

At Marquette and Houghton yesterday lows of five above were recorded compared to three above here but a sub-zero low five was registered at Hancock. It was six below in Green Bay, eight below in Milwaukee, 18 below in Park Falls, Minn. Coldest spot in the nation yesterday was Bismarck, N. D. where the mercury fell to 26 below.

There is no anticipated severe cold wave indicated here, the meteorologist said, unless there is a change in the wind to strong west northwest as the temperature of Lake Michigan which affects the weather here has remained fairly constant at 38 degrees.

The cold wave which piled down from western Canada moved southwest of Escanaba but hit hard in northern Wisconsin where sub-zero temperatures from 5 to 15 degrees were registered and brought with it a threat of snow which is more likely to develop in central Upper Michigan than in this vicinity.

QUIT STORM WARNINGS

Storm warning signals will not be displayed here, Hathaway said, for the remainder of the winter season except in the cases of very severe storms.

The shortest day of 1945 and the beginning of winter will occur on Saturday, Dec. 22.

The sun, which has been traveling southward since June, reaches the end of its path at 12:04 a. m. (EST), according to the U. S. Naval Observatory. After this time, it will begin moving northward again.

On this day the sun has its lowest noontime altitude in the sky of any time of the year, and the shadows are the longest.

Because the sun is so far south, its heating effect is now least in the northern part of the world but is greatest in the southern hemisphere. There Dec. 22 will mark the beginning of summer.

tain Chungking's agreement to peace in China.

Settlement of the China hostilities was proposed as being vital for Japan and for American-Japanese rapprochement.

The plan provided for Japan and America to guarantee the independence of China.

The plan further agreed that America and Japan "will not position naval and air strength which would mutually threaten the other."

Of high importance to Japan was Konoye's statement that if an understanding were reached, there would be mutual exchange of necessary materials. He said it would provide that the United States should furnish credit and give "support and cooperation in the production and gaining of resources Japan desires in the (southwest Pacific) area such as petroleum, rubber, tin, nickel and others."

The two countries would jointly guarantee the independence of the Philippines, wrote Konoye.

Bark River

Sunnyside P. T. A.

Bark River, Mich.—The Sunnyside Parent-Teachers Organization met Friday evening, Dec. 15 at 8:15 at the school.

The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. Arthur Sundquist followed by the Flag Salute and the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Volunteers were called on to help bag the Christmas candy for the children. The call was readily answered.

The proposed compulsory military training plan was discussed and a vote was taken. The unit voted in favor of the plan.

Announcement was made of the Sunnyside Christmas program which will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 20 at 8 o'clock. The Christmas vacation will begin Friday, Dec. 21 and school will open for the new year on Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Mrs. John Barr reported on the adult education meeting she attended in Escanaba.

Upon adjournment Mrs. Joseph Madalinski presented the following Christmas program:

PAY PENALTY FOR TIEUP, GM DEMAND SAYS

tured, the location of plants, schedules of production, methods, processes and means of manufacture, the right to hire, promote, transfer, discharge or discipline for cause and to maintain discipline and efficiency of employees are the sole responsibilities of the corporation.

Ford Idea Followed

The management asked that the union "withdraw objections to the local union negotiating and agreeing to pay plans which provide for rewarding individuals for increased productive effort." The corporation has said the union objects to the incentive wage plan.

The GM demand for penalties against workers participating in unauthorized work stoppages follows the line of a Ford Motor Co. demand for "company security."

Ford demanded that the union pay a $5 a day fine for each worker or taking part in illegal stoppages. The union countered with a proposal for fines of $3 for the first offense and $5 for subsequent contract violations, the money to be deducted from the offender's pay check. The proposal still is under discussion.

Most of the other demands contained in the GM letter amplified provisions of the existing contract and related mainly to grievance procedure, bargaining processes and seniority accumulation.

Police Crash Line

The first restraining order against Michigan pickets was issued late today in Lansing by Circuit Judge Charles H. Hayden.

He directed pickets to cease interfering with GM office employees seeking to enter three strike-bound plants there.

The order, issued against Locals 602 and 632, followed a bill of complaint signed by S. E. Skinner, GM vice-president and manager of the Oldsmobile and Oldsmobile for plants. Pickets at the Fisher body plant were also included in the order.

Skinner's complaint claimed the union had informed administrative officers they would not be allowed through the lines and that illegal picket lines had been maintained.

A show-cause hearing is scheduled Jan. 9.

Earlier in the day upwards of 10,000 salaried employees who had been kept from their jobs by the strike of production workers went through picket lines to return to their jobs.

At Flint, Mich., police, using a flying wedge formation, charged through a picket line at one of the corporation's AC Spark Plug division plants.

Within the wedge were 30 non-union office workers. They were not molested by the strikers although shouts of "scab" were hurled at them from the line. Subsequently scores of other office employees entered through the hole opened by Police Captain Gus Hawkins and 30 police officers. Union spokesmen said only about 50 pickets were at the plant gates when the police appeared.

Office workers at GM plants in other cities also went through the picket lines today to return to their jobs. Generally the lines opened voluntarily. At Lansing George Nader, a CIO United Automobile Workers International representative, charged that an Oldsmobile official struck a striker in the picket line at the gate of the Oldsmobile plant. Nader said a warrant would be sought against the official.

FAMILIES GET HELP

Detroit, Dec. 17 (AP)—Daniel J. Ryan, general superintendent of the Detroit welfare department reported to Mayor Edward J. Jeffries today that city welfare aid has been approved for the families of 60 striking General Motors workers.

Financial assistance being given ranges from partial relief ($20 every two weeks to supplement food and rent expenses) to full relief ($57 every two weeks) Ryan said. He added that applications from GM workers now are being filed at the rate of 30 a day.

Under the state unemployment compensation act strikers are not eligible for benefits available to persons idle through no fault of their own.

Union Wants A.F.L. Aide In Peninsula

Marquette—Request for the provision of a full-time representative of the American Federation of Labor to work in the Upper Peninsula, made by R. J. Dorow of the Marquette Central Labor Union and backed by other U. P. delegates at the recent annual convention of the Michigan Federation of Labor in Detroit, has received the support of the state organization.

Dorow, who is first vice-president of the state federation, was accompanied by two other Marquette delegates, A. W. Locking, Cleveland District council representative, and Dexter D. Clark, representing Local 3190, Furniture Workers.

Boy Vandals Cause $5,000 Damage In School At Detroit

Detroit, Dec. 17 (AP)—Four juveniles were held today for questioning in an orgy of weekend vandalism that wrecked 24 classrooms of the Harding school. Principal Jean Lannin estimated damages at $5,000.

Two of the boys, aged 10 and 11, were found in the building early Sunday. They explained they had been forced to enter by two older boys and then locked in. Questioning led to the arrest of the other two, ages 13 and 14.

Police said a hatchet and a cleaver were used to smash musical instruments, and furniture. In the lunch room, the vandals smashed eggs on the walls, poured five gallons of oil on the floor, and littered the room with butter, meats and bread.

Stage settings for a Christmas pageant were hacked, including the doll which was to represent the Christ-child.

Bodies Of 300,000 War Dead May Be Returned To U. S.

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Legislation directing the war department to return for burial in this country an estimated 300,000 bodies of American killed abroad was passed by the House today and sent to the Senate.

The bodies to be returned are those of service men and civilians whose death since September 16, 1940, was directly attributable to the war or to government service, and whose next of kin desire their return.

U. P. Briefs

PURCHASE GREENHOUSES

Iron River—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hardstedt, proprietors of the Iron River Floral Shop, 318 Genesee, have purchased the Harding greenhouses, Maple and Second, from James H. Harding, former mayor, who had been in business here since 1921.

The former mayor came here in 1921 from Iron Mountain, where for a time he worked at the Eskil greenhouse. He learned the flower and plant business in a large nursery in England. Harding has been active in civic affairs and the Legion.

The Hardstedts took over the management of the Floral Shop in November, 1922, and will continue both businesses. Mr. Hardstedt will have charge of the greenhouses and Mrs. Hardstedt, formerly Ruth Falk, this city, will manage the shop downtown.

THREATEN TO STRIKE

Iron River—Some 1,450 iron county mine employees will join in the CIO-United Steel Workers strike, Jan. 14, if negotiations for a $2-a-day wage increase fail, Ramsay Wilson, district CIO representative, said here yesterday.

"The union will make every effort to avoid a strike, but the men want more pay for their work," Wilson said. He believes management and labor, through a federal conciliator, will begin negotiations soon.

COLDS CLOSE SCHOOLS

Petoskey, Dec. 17 (AP)—All public and parochial schools were closed here Monday until Jan. 2 because of an epidemic of colds and influenza.

School Superintendent H. C. Spittler said 11 of 50 teachers in the public schools and 520 out of 1,750 pupils were absent from school Monday.

INJURED PATTON SITS UP IN BED

Plaster Cast Encases
Broken Neck; Speedy
Recovery Likely

BY RICHARD O'REGAN

Heidelberg, Dec. 17 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., sat up in his hospital bed today for the first time since his automobile accident eight days ago, after doctors removed a traction apparatus which had realigned the vertebrae in his broken neck.

Army medical authorities, who substituted a plaster cast which encases Patton's neck and the upper part of his chest, said the colorful 15th Army commander was getting well "like a house afire."

One army source at the 130th Station hospital here said "only 'Old Blood and Guts' could come out of it the way he did."

The 60 year old former commander of the Third Army was recovering from the paralytic injury to his spinal chord with speed reminiscent of his armored lunges across France and Germany. He had said after the crash: "This is a hell of a way to die."

With the cast keeping his neck immobile, Patton was able to read and eat sitting up. Mrs. Patton spent the entire day with him.

Messages of encouragement continued to come in, including one from Winston Churchill, who said: "I sincerely hope you are making a good recovery. Your accident has caused pain to your British friends and comrades, who have admired your brilliant service for the common cause."

Senate Resolution Asks Free Entry Of Jews In Palestine

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Senate formally called on the United States today to use its "good offices" with Great Britain toward the opening of Palestine to free entry of Jews.

It passed, on a voice vote, a resolution by Senators Wagner (D-NY) and Taft (R-Ohio) favoring establishment of Palestine as "a democratic commonwealth in which all men, regardless of race or creed, shall have equal rights."

Liquor Commission Chairman Retained

Lansing, Dec. 17 (AP)—John P. Aaron, chairman of the state liquor control commission, today was reappointed for a three-year term by Governor Kelly.

Aaron was appointed a year ago to replace William P. Edmonson, who resigned. Edmonson now is deputy director of the state planning commission.

ROTARY FOUNDER DIES

Chicago, Dec. 17 (AP)—Silvester Schiele, 75, co-founder of the first Rotary Club in 1905, died of a heart attack suffered on a loop street today. He was first president of the Chicago Rotary Club in 1905-6 and had been treasurer of Rotary International, Men's Civic Service Club, for the last eight months. He was born in Clay City, Ind.

VETERAN SKIPPER DIES

Detroit, Dec. 17 (AP)—Captain Samuel H. Brines, 72, who sailed the Great Lakes for more than 50 years, died Sunday. A member of the Shipmasters' Association, he was captain of his own craft for 30 years.

Canada And U. S. A. To Build Defenses In Arctic Regions

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—The United States and Canada are co-operating on joint measures against any future attack, particularly across the Arctic regions, Allied diplomatic officials disclosed today.

As one step, the U. S. has assigned six observers to accompany "exercise musk-ox," the Canadian army and Air Force expedition which will make a 3,100-mile expedition through the Arctic early next year to gather information on possible military operations in that region. The expedition will be supplied by air.

As another step, the American-Canadian board of defense, headed by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York, now is meeting every two months instead of every three months as it did during the war.

American officials also are supporting the Arctic Institute at McGill university in Canada which is studying problems of existence in the Arctic.

Gen. Henry H. Arnold has predicted that the next war may bring attacks across the North Pole with atomic weapons.

Germfask Objectors Lose Plea In Court For Review Of Case

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—Seven men convicted of leaving a Michigan conscientious objectors camp without permission were turned down by the supreme court today in a plea for review.

The group, convicted of leaving the camp at Germfask, Mich., pleaded that the selective service regulations pertaining to their case were not the intention of Congress and not within presidential powers.

The seven men, most of whom are interested in social science studies and activities, protested they had been assigned to erecting fences and similar work. They said in their petition that the war emergency "did not permit the luxury" of permitting skilled persons to "waste their time" on work which could be dispensed with or performed by others.

The petitioners were Arden Dietrich Bode, Alfred Earnest Partridge, John Kayser Beubrand, Morris Horowitz, George Kiyoshi Yamada, Jason Jerome Hopkins and Rodney Claud Owen.

Mortar Board And Orange And Black Meeting Tonight

A joint meeting of the Escanaba high school Mortar Board and Orange and Black clubs will be held this evening beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. James H. Bell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will lead the games after the regular meeting. Refreshments also will be served.

Those on the program committee are: Dorothy L. Peterson, Joan Hemes, Bill Harvey, Cecil Samuels and Bill Nimzinsky.

Members of the refreshment committee are: Mary Sue Farrell, Gloria Baron, Joyce Nichol, Paul James and Jack Finn.

Needle Worth $125 Located In Drifts

Detroit, Dec. 17 (AP)—Dr. Kenneth Corrigan went hunting for a needle in a snowdrift today. He found it.

Radium, about the size and shape of a phonograph needle, was lost by Dr. Clark D. Brooks Saturday as he walked from his office to Harper hospital.

Dr. Corrigan with a self-made "doodlebug" was called in. He located it in the gutter. The needle was valued at $125.

hint that Hawaii would be attacked, however, he added.

Emphasizing how concerned the navy was to keep the code-cracking secret, Wilkinson revealed more details of how it figured in the aerial ambushing of the Japanese naval commander, Admiral Yamamoto, in April, 1943.

At that time, Wilkinson was deputy to Admiral William F. Halsey. He said he got a message from Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz that "Magic"—the code cracking—knew where Yamamoto could be shot down at a certain place and at a certain time.

"I invited his attention that it would show we had broken their code," Wilkinson said he told Nimitz.

"He said 'go ahead,' he would take that chance."

Wilkinson said a few "Magic" intercepts were sent out "to the field" in July, 1941, but none after that, the navy desiring to keep the code-cracking as top secret. He said "summaries" of diplomatic developments, which contained no tips on code breaking, were provided the field commanders, however.

Committee Counsel Gerhard Gesell asked why these summaries were "discontinued" October 24, a few days after Wilkinson took over the naval intelligence post, and he said he did not know.

FAVOR 10-DAY BEAVER SEASON

District Conservation
Officers Vote On Question Here

Conservation officers of the Delta-Marquette-Alger district are in favor of an open season on beaver in the Upper Peninsula in 1946, a question which has become controversial following action of U. P. sportsmen's clubs in adopting a resolution recommending that the season be closed.

The conservation department game division has requested that district meetings be held to discuss the opening or closing of the beaver trapping season in 1946, and that recommendations be submitted by the officers.

10-Day Season In Past
It will be the recommendation of the officers from this district that the season for 1946 be limited to 10 days instead of the previous 20-day open season, which opens April 1 and that five animals, four beaver and one otter, or five beaver, be permitted taken. It will also be recommended that if the season is opened, rivers and lakes on principal watersheds in this district be closed to trapping so that the beaver population would not be too greatly reduced.

These watersheds in this district would include the Escanaba river and its East Branch; the Sturgeon river; the Big West; and the main and East Branch of the Whitefish river.

The policy of closing the principal watersheds in the eastern section of the Upper Peninsula as a breeding grounds has been highly successful to maintain the beaver population. The Tahquamenon, Brevort, and other principal watersheds are included.

Arguments against closing the season heard at the recent meeting of conservation officers at headquarters in Escanaba included the point that Alger county has been closed for the past two years. There the beaver are numerous and trapping should be permitted. If only Alger county is open in the U. P., the concentration of trappers might seriously deplete the stock there.

Fur Prices High
It was also argued that in this period of high prices on furs, trappers should be given the opportunity to take advantage of the condition. The OPA ceiling price is $70 for "blanket" beaver pelts—pelts which measure a total of more than 66 inches in combined measurement from head to tail and from side to side.

Present at the district conference meeting were: John Anguim, Escanaba, district supervisor; Paul Challacin, assistant district supervisor; Officers Allen Tweedy, Rapid River; Ray Roberts, Nahma; Earl Kaiser, Chatham; Howard Gross, Marquette; William Hanna, Republic; Arne Posio, Negaunee; Walter Sauer, Gwinn; Donald Claus, Big Bay; Ernest Libby, Marquette; and Game Area Managers Howard Eldred, Escanaba; Roy Semeyn, Marquette; and John Byelich, Escanaba River tract.

Welfare Offices To Close Mondays, Dec. 24 And 31

The Delta County Welfare offices, 718 Ludington street, will be closed both on Monday, Dec. 24, and on Monday, Dec. 31, the days before the Christmas and New Year holidays but will remain open on the previous Saturdays of both weeks until noon, it was reported yesterday.

The offices are customarily open daily from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Social Security Is Discussed By Kiwanis Speaker

The problem of poverty or insecurity is one that has concerned human society from the days of primitive man, Stanley Faulstich, manager of the Social Security Board office here, said in an informative talk at the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday.

Mr. Faulstich traced the development of world economy from early times, and stated that the modern problem of insecurity came into being with the Industrial Revolution in the late 17th and early 18th centuries. Recognition of the need for community action in attacking poverty came with the development of systems of public relief, fraternal organizations, unions and other charitable aids, he said. These systems are designed to spread the risk on a larger base, which is the aim of social insurance or social security, the speaker said.

Mr. Faulstich pointed out that the social security program is dignified and democratic, and that the beneficiaries should regard the benefits as rights, to which they are entitled because of the payments their employers and themselves make to the insurance fund. He added, however, that social security is not a complete cure for human poverty. Because the payments paid on retirement are still somewhat the subsistence level, many persons do not quit work at 65 years of age. Mr. Faulstich said there are now about 700,000 persons in this country who continue to work beyond their retirement age, according to records of the Social Security Board.

A question and answer period followed Mr. Faulstich's talk.

Salvation Army Leader Talks To Escanaba Lions

Capt. George Beckstrom of the Salvation Army told the Escanaba Lions club Tuesday evening that their gifts will make a happy Christmas for some underprivileged Escanaba children who otherwise would be disappointed on Christmas Day.

The Lions club held its annual Christmas party at the Sherman hotel last evening, with members bringing gifts that were contributed to the Salvation Army for Christmas distribution. Capt. Beckstrom declared that at least 60 Christmas baskets will be distributed to needy families. In addition many children of poor families will be guests of the Salvation Army for Christmas dinner, at which time gift packages will be distributed.

Postoffice Will Remain Open Until 7 p. m. This Week

For the remainder of the week the postoffice will remain open evenings until 7 o'clock and patrons still waiting to be served at that time will be accommodated even if it necessitates a slightly later closing hour, Postmaster Regina Cleary said yesterday.

On Saturday the money-order service window will remain open all day instead of closing at the customary hour of noon.

AGED SPALDING RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Mary Dorinski, 90,
Succumbs After Long
Illness

Mrs. Mary Dorinski, 90, died at her home in Spalding Sunday evening at eight o'clock after an illness of six months.

She was born in Poland Sept. 10, 1855 and was married in that country to John Dorinski. Mr. and Mrs. Dorinski came to Chicago in 1895 and 20 years later moved to Spalding. Mr. Dorinski passed away 22 years ago.

She was a member of St. Francis Xavier church, Spalding. Survivors are eight sons, Walter, of Lorain, Ohio; Frank, of Corning, Ohio; Edmund, of Beloit; Vincent, of Herrin, Ill.; Peter and John, of Carney, and Sylvester and Bruno, at home. Eleven grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren also survive.

The body was prepared for burial at the Boyle funeral home in Bark River and will be returned to the family home in Spalding this afternoon. Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at nine o'clock at St. Francis Xavier church, Spalding, with Rev. F. A. Seifert officiating. Interment will be made in Spalding cemetery.

Another Guilty Conscience

ANOTHER leading Japanese personage has taken the coward's way of escaping justice for his misdeeds. Prince Konoye, who served three times as premier of Japan during a period when that now-conquered nation plotted to expand her empire, took poison in his lavish Tokyo home on Sunday.

In his suicide note, Konoye accepted the responsibility for Japan's destructive war of aggression in China, but he professed innocence in connection with the diplomatic and military maneuvers that led up to the Pearl Harbor incident.

The prince explained he could not go through the humiliation of standing trial as a war criminal. It will be recalled that it was Konoye who offered, shortly after the Japanese surrender, to set up and head the postwar government in Japan. His bluff did not work, however, and he was bluntly told by General MacArthur that he was not acceptable.

War criminals of Japan and Germany, regardless of their position, are being brought to the bar of justice. Conditions are much different now than after World War I when the Kaiser and other German big-wigs were allowed to go scot-free. Now the Nazi politicians, Prussian militarists, Japanese jingoists and big business men, who profited on war, are branded as murderers. They are learning to their regret that war-making is a two-edged sword.

The UNO Picks America

THE decision to establish the permanent home of the United Nations in the United States, instead of in Europe, is a fitting one because it recognizes the fact that the leadership in developing the organization came from this country and that the United Nations had its birth in America at San Francisco.

More important than that, however, is the inescapable truth that establishing the capital of the United Nations in the United States will make for greater harmony than if the permanent home of the organization was in Europe, with all its political intrigue and pot-pourri of international suspicions.

Locating the UNO capital in America should also serve as a constant reminder to the people of this country that the United States has pledged itself to participate in an international program designed to solve world problems, in contrast to the program of isolationism that characterized the American policy after World War I.

It is particularly encouraging to note that the vote to establish the UNO capital in the United States was made by open ballot and that the efforts of France and Britain to get a secret ballot was rejected. Americans like to have the cards played face up on the table and we believe that international relations can best be accomplished by following this system.

World-Mindedness

NEWSPAPERS, churches, schools and other educational forces are giving increased emphasis today to what they term the need for world-mindedness.

The world isn't what it used to be. Modern communications, like the airplane, radio and telephone, have caused it to literally shrink to a much smaller size. An airplane trip from New York to London is only a matter of several hours, nowadays, not much longer than it takes to go by train from Escanaba to Chicago. Two world wars, against which America tried in every way to insulate itself, have demonstrated the plain fact that we just cannot keep out of international disputes that might break out in Europe or Asia.

America and the other nations of the world have become interdependent. There no longer is any security in isolation, in building bigger and better battleships and bombers, bigger and better atomic bombs.

Whatever we do in a physical way to prevent war will be of no avail unless we develop in the public mind an understanding of the need for maintaining peace to preserve civilization. Nations will have to develop world-mindedness. But what are nations after all, but a conglomeration of people. We in Escanaba are a part of the America and the world. We also must become world-minded in our schools, churches and other educational institutions. From our public library, we can borrow the books that will give us a clearer idea of the problems of the world and create a better understanding of the feelings and aspirations of peoples of other lands. Forum discussions can play an important role in developing this much-needed world-mindedness, but first of all we must have a willingness to try to understand the viewpoints of other nations and their citizens. The problem cannot be approached with a feeling of suspicion, hate and prejudice in our hearts and minds.

Gambling at Resorts

OFTENTIMES, we have heard the comment that the Upper Peninsula would become a more prosperous resort region if while-open gambling were allowed to flourish. Reference is often made to the money that is spent by gambling vacationists

Eagle River and other northern Wisconsin resorts.

There is another side to the question, however. Gambling attracted bootleggers, gangsters and other riff-raff from Chicago and other cities. The situation got so bad that many decent people quit going to some Wisconsin resorts and, instead, came to the Upper Peninsula and other regions, where the slot machine and the roulette wheel were nowhere to be seen.

The good people of Wisconsin also went up in arms over unrestricted gambling a few years ago, and finally found a champion in aged Governor Goodland. Where local officials refuse to enforce the anti-gambling law in Wisconsin, the state steps in and does an effective job.

"The state is today freer from gambling than at any time in its recent history, due very largely to the fact that state agents led the way," the Milwaukee Journal states. "Good citizens everywhere are rejoicing in this situation," which might never have been achieved if the state had not taken a hand and which might still be reversed if the state lost interest."

(Green Bay Press-Gazette)

In the considerable sea of evidence that is presented in any inquiry like that of Pearl Harbor the real issue at stake may be twisted or confused out of shape, or lost entirely.

What the country really wants to know consists of two questions: (1) Whether national leaders took upon themselves the right to declare war in violation of the constitution, and (2) whether the admittedly deplorable gathering of the Pacific fleet at Pearl Harbor was not worsened into an inexcusable blunder by failing then to protect it by giving every advice and caution and piece of information to those in charge that Washington admittedly had in its pocket.

It has always seemed that painful as were the errors under the second head they did not approach the magnitude of the wrong committed against the American people if, in truth, Washington committed itself, tacitly or otherwise, to going into action against the Japs if Tokyo moved against British, Dutch or French colonies.

General Marshall has just added his evidence to an already impressive amount to the effect that if the movement of the Japs in November, 1941, was against European colonial possessions, we "would be forced to accept a condition of hostilities." The General made the accurate distinction that his was not the right to decide when to go into action. He had not been concerned with negotiations directly. He was only concerned at the immediate time in restraining national leaders from precipitate action. That was why he joined in requesting the President not to issue an ultimatum to Japan.

The use of the ultimatum in this case, the decision by General Marshall's superiors to go to war if the Japs ate up more of Asia, encompasses the complete question of American embroilment in battles afar.

And since no one can know the future more than a pace or two, the decision to enter the war should have been left to the American people who actually are as capable of foreseeing the future as those who may have decided to act for them though prohibited from so acting by the constitution.

HOW ABOUT IT?

(Pontiac Press)

This entire nation is suffering from an acute housing shortage.

OPA predicts that two million veterans alone will need homes by Christmas, 1946. That's only a year away.

According to Prentice-Hall, Washington is awakening to the national shortage of houses and is considering these steps:

- 1—Converting surplus army barracks into apartments;
- 2—Moving all service men who live away from posts into government barracks to make more houses available;
- 3—Moving surplus war housing to needed localities;
- 4—Limiting the rental of vacancies in shortage areas to veterans.

Can Pontiac make use of anything listed here?

Is there any way this community can take advantage of Number Three?

With a nationwide demand for houses, only those communities that exert the most effort and make the most energetic fight will profit at all.

The time to start is NOW.

The laggards will be lost in the dust.

WORDS TO WATCH

Overheard on a newscast: "They seized a hoard of gold and silver boo-YAWN." Of course, the words "boulion" and "boulion" do have a slight resemblance, but they are not even kissing cousins. Boulion is a French word designating a clear soup. It is from the verb bouillir, "to boil." The French nasalize the second syllable, thus: boo-YAWN(N). In the customary American pronunciation the "n" is pronounced, as: boo-YAWN.

Bullion is pronounced: BULL-yun. The word means gold and silver considered as

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington — Londoners who thought that the siege of their city had been lifted with the end of the war were slightly mistaken. The ancient city has just undergone a new siege by Americans working in the good old booster tradition to get the United Nations organization located in the home town — any one of a dozen home towns.

This friendly siege seems rather to have started London. In the long interval of the war, when only visitors on official errands crossed the Atlantic, the British seem to have forgotten what the American go-getter was like.

There was even at the outset a move to keep the booster committees at home. The British foreign office sent word to Lord Halifax instructing him not to grant visas to large delegations from America seeking the site of UNO. The foreign office pointed out that hotel accommodations in bombed London were very scarce, to say nothing of food that Americans would consider adequate.

—HALIFAX KNOWS AMERICA—
The reply Lord Halifax sent back was a model of diplomatic tact but it was nevertheless firm. In effect he said: "During my term of service in Washington I have endeavored to be an obedient ambassador. But in this instance I must beg leave to disobey you. It is important that no restrictions be put on the entry of Americans on this errand."

In his nearly five years in this country Ambassador Halifax has learned to know America very well. He is proud of the fact that he has spoken or at least made a public appearance in all of the 48 states except two, Rhode Island and North Dakota. He knows very well what home-town patriotism is like and what the indignation of a mayor or governor would be if he found himself denied the right to go to London in person with his plea.

—SAULT WANTS SITE—
Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, Denver, Chicago and Atlantic City all sent delegations. But smaller communities also turned with civic zeal. Sault Ste. Marie in Michigan, on the international boundary with Canada, wanted the site. One proposal was to locate it near Thomas Jefferson's home at Monticello, Virginia. Miami, Fla., put in an application that stressed all of Florida's charms.

Not to be outdone, California submitted at least three sites, including the beautiful Monterey peninsula. Hawaii made application and so did Indiana.

One of the most active lobbies has pressed the claims of the Black Hills in South Dakota. This was backed by the governors of Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming. As a clinching argument, the inducement of steak at least twice a day was held out.

The city boosters wooed the UNO delegates in London by every possible means. There were rounds of cocktail parties in the Dorchester, Claridge's and Grosvenor house.

—EUROPEANS ARE PUZZLED—
Some of the European delegates found this deluge of cordiality a little hard to understand. It was difficult to believe that any part of the earth was still so untouched, so fortunate, so well supplied with food, as to want strangers to come there.

Apparently, with the support of Soviet Russia, the United States is to get the site of UNO. But it is quite possible to understand the doubts that the British and some Europeans have.

In spite of the airplane, we are still a long way from the grim realities of Europe where the peace will be won or lost. There is a danger that delegates meeting in a Shanghai-La atmosphere would be lulled to indifference or unconcern.

No matter how much one might resist it, the physical environment does have an influence. It might prove hard for the UNO delegates to get down to work in a resort atmosphere. They would always be playing hookey on the beach.

At least one thing is certain and that is that the UNO will have no doubt of the warmth of its welcome. Our booster delegations in England have made that perfectly clear.

Overheard on a radio interview, a Filipino official speaking: "And I shall take home some lingerie for my wife."

The word lingerie, usually pronounced "LAWN-jun-ray" in bargain-basement French, is, in the United States, as un-French of words as one could dream up in a month of Sundays. The French pronunciation, for example, is la(n)zh-REE, with the "a" flat as in "lad" and followed by the nasal sound. This pronunciation appears in all American dictionaries, but it has made little progress in this country, chiefly because of the American inability or unwillingness to voice the French nasal sound.

Occasionally one hears the word as "LAN-jun-ree" or "LAN-zhuh-ree," either of which is much closer to the mark than "LAWN-jun-ray." Of the three, I should choose LAN-zhuh-ree as a good compromise.

However, if lingerie were given the correct French pronunciation, the word would still be un-French in America, for here it is used as a euphemism for "women's silk underclothes and nightgowns," whereas, the literal meaning is "a linen closet; linen clothes collectively." It is from linge, the French word for "linen." The Frenchman, then, is amazed at such terms as "silk lingerie."

Pittsburgh: I certainly don't take your word for it. How, under the sun, do you get a long "i" sound in the first syllable of simultaneous?—R. J.

Answer: The pronunciation SIGH-mul-tay-nee-uss is the first choice of Merriam Webster's Funk and Wagnalls, Thorndyke Century, Macmillan's, Winston's and Kenyon and Knott's, and the second choice of the New Century.

RINGING THE BELL—George Victor Martin of Chicago and Nahma, the author who rang the bell in the literary and Hollywood world with "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes," is now ringing another bell — a novelized version of "The Bells of St. Mary's" for Grosset & Dunlap.

Just back from a trip to New York City, the author of "Vines" is warming up his summer home at Nahma and his friendships there and in Escanaba. It will be recalled that George spent most of last summer at Nahma making over a fisherman's shack into a habitation for an author. The dwelling now has gone modern with a bathroom and big kitchen range. He fires the kitchen range with driftwood that not only provides heat for cooking his meals and taking the chill off the house, but warms water for his bath.

Perhaps he may not have opened his house at all this winter. Probably the Nahma hotel is his home on this brief stay.

HOW IT'S DONE—The trip to New York City was a command performance in a way. After Hollywood's unusual success in filming "Vines" (it ran for a month solid at Radio City Music Hall) the author was placed on the celebrity list in Gotham.

"I never saw a town so mad about authors," said George.

While there Grosset & Dunlap put him to work on a novelization of "The Bells of St. Mary's," a movie sequel to "Going My Way." Ingrid Bergman and Bing Crosby head the cast in "The Bells" and the Oscar-winning "Going My Way."

What the publishers wanted was a story from "The Bells" which they could add to their popular list of novelized movie classics. George was given the assignment.

After seeing the movie he was given the dialogue and told to go to work. The job of making a living, breathing entity out of the dialogue skeleton was a big one, and George said he felt he was failing. A beautiful female representing the publishers came to call on him and inquire about the progress he was making. He told her how he had failed and showed her some of his efforts.

"Why, this is perfectly marvelous, you jerk," said the damsel, and George went ahead with renewed confidence and energy.

STOPS TUMBLING — Before the phenomenal success of his novel "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes," George wrote another he titled "Tumbleweed Across My Field." It kept tumbling from one publishing house to another but has finally come to rest (after some revision and a new title) with Grosset & Dunlap. Perhaps it may be movie material, too.

If it does and has the same quality of life as "Vines," a story of farm folk in a Wisconsin Norwegian settlement, it should be good box office for the movies.

Local people will recall that "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" ran for a solid week at an Escanaba theater, crowded out a return showing of the epic "Wilson." The movies gave "Vines" the not inconsiderable talents of Margaret O'Brien, Edward G. Robinson and Jackie Jenkins.

GOING HIS WAY — For the time being things are going George Victor Martin's way. Quite obvi-

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Struck by an automobile Tuesday evening while he was pulling children across the street on a sled, Robert Britz, 13, of 218 Stephens, received a broken arm which brought him to St. Francis hospital.

Mary Louise Wilson, 1935 graduate of the Escanaba high school, is a soloist in a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Yeomen of the Guard" to be presented at the College of St. Theresa, Winona, next Monday.

Mrs. Tom Beaton, Old State road, is a medical patient at St. Francis hospital.

Gladstone—Chief of Police Torval Kallarsen regained possession of the Willis Pistol trophy in a shoot conducted early this week on the club range on the bluff.

Four camps will be abandoned Jan. 1 in the Hiawatha and Marquette National Forests in compliance with the economy order reducing CCC enrollments from 500,000 to 300,000, it was stated yesterday by Paul A. Wohlen, supervisor in charge of the two forest tracts.

20 Years Ago—1925
Washington—A verdict of guilty on all specifications and the general charge coupled with a sentence of suspension for five years from "rank, command and duty" in the army was found tonight against Col. William Mitchell by the court-martial which has been conducting his trial for insubordination since October 28.

Mrs. Anna Lindberg, aged 89, of Bark River, was admitted yesterday to St. Francis hospital, suffering from a fractured hip when she fell at her home on the icy ground.

George N. Harder, general manager of the I. Stephenson company's plant at Wells and the Escanaba and Lake Superior railroad has been made a member of the board of directors of the Stephenson National Bank of Marinette.

He is pleased about it, he nevertheless has a temperament that makes him doubtful, a not unusual condition among authors.

Although somewhat indefinite about his plans for the indefinite future he spoke of driving to Mexico for the winter.

"But you know, no matter where I go or how far away, I always have that guy Martin with me."

HE LIKES VARIETY—At the suggestion that he might settle down at Nahma this winter and turn out another novel along the lines of "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes," George shied away gracefully. Since he does play the piano and does like music, it is understandable that he might metaphorically speak of writing as music.

Look now, sometimes I like to play a polka, at other times a schottische or a waltz—I might even want to try a symphony," he said.

STORY OF AMERICANS—Those who saw the movie version of "Vines" and also read the book are in the minority. It is to Hollywood's credit that it held fairly close to the book.

For the story is that of real Americans in a real American setting. Many more stories of that kind would do much to bring a closer understanding of America if the book was read or the play was seen in foreign countries. It would be a pleasing departure from the cowboy-Indian western, or the gangster-moll cinema type of Americana.

It is a hopeful sign, therefore, when Martin reported that "Vines" is being made into a Spanish-language version for South America and other Spanish-speaking centers of the world.

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE

Q. Are men in the Army eligible for discharge because they are fathers of three children?

A. Yes, if the children are under eighteen years of age and dependent upon the father for support and a family allowance or Class-B allotment is in force for their benefit.

Q. My husband was discharged from the Army early in November. I received a Family Allowance check early this month (Dec.). Am I entitled to it?

A. Yes, you are. The Family Allowance is paid through the month of discharge, even though the soldier may be discharged early in the month.

Q. Is there such a thing as a Victory ribbon? If so, how is it worn?

A. Congress has enacted legislation establishing a Victory Medal for World War II, to be awarded to all members of the armed forces of the United States who served honorably on active duty at any time between December 7, 1941 and the date of the termination of hostilities in the present war. The ribbon is worn immediately after the campaign ribbons for World War II.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. Our door bell won't ring. What do you think may be the trouble?

A. If a battery-operated door bell system gives trouble, it is likely that the batteries are weak or entirely run down and need replacement. If the batteries are fresh, or if the system is operated from a transformer, then look for dirt or corroded terminals in the push buttons, and scrape them clean and bright. It may be that the bell itself is out of adjustment, or that there is a broken wire somewhere along the circuit.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Q. How can hard or lumpy brown sugar be softened?

A. By placing it in a shallow pan in the oven for a few minutes.

Q. How can silk be pressed to prevent scorching and yellowing?
A. Silk scorches easily, and white silk becomes yellow when pressed with a very hot iron. Use a warm iron, protecting the fabric with cheesecloth. Iron on the wrong side. The fabric should be evenly damp, but not wet. If too wet and ironed with a hot iron it will be stiff and papery, and if half wet and half dry it may be spotted.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—To every G. I. in the United States Army and every G. I. already out, biggest news last week wasn't General Marshall's testimony before the congressional Pearl Harbor committee, or the General Motors strike, or the British parliament battle over the $4,400,000,000 U. S. loan.

It was the story about Pvt. George L. Mark's lethal lambasting of war department brass hats during testimony before the House Military Affairs committee while a score of generals and colonels listened in red-faced amazement.

What the Buck Private did was what millions of his buddies have dreamed of doing—speaking their minds about their brass-hat overlords with full protection against disciplinary action. The House committee guaranteed this protection and Private Mark, a 37-year-old Clevelander about to be discharged, made the most of it.

Justified or not, every barrack "lawyer" would agree that Mark's charges made beautiful G. I. reading. Flaying the military chiefs with such names as "Pentagon Boy Scouts," "Bemedaled Four-Flushers" and "Aristocratic Phonies," the bald-pated G. I. declared: "They want a large army to retain their ranks. These brass hats don't like work. If they did, they wouldn't be in the army."

Capitol Newsman William Arbogast later asked one of the major generals who listened to the tirade if Private Mark's discharge would be held up and if his explosive comments would fetch him a "blue discharge."

"Hell, no," replied the General. "We'd have this committee on our heads if anything like that happened. This boy is due to be discharged tomorrow and he'll get an honorable one—right on time. We're not going to waste any time letting him out of the army."

—TRUMAN'S IRISH BLOOD—

The friendly sons of St. Patrick claim they have chalked up real progress in making an Irishman out of President Truman.

At a recent sons banquet, which Truman attended, it was brought out that his forebears were Irishmen named Tremaine. So officials of the organization called at the White House the other day to offer Truman an honorary membership.

"We have already voted you in at an executive meeting," James Colliflower, president of the society, announced. "We'd be delighted to have you accept and attend our next St. Patrick's day dinner."

Barring out-of-town business, Truman said he would be on hand for the dinner.

"I don't see any reason why I shouldn't accept an honorary membership in the friendly Sons of St. Patrick, also," he added. "But do you think I qualify?"

"Certainly you qualify, Mr. President," spoke up Martin J. McNamara, popular Washington attorney. "George Washington was a member. He joined the society in Philadelphia after it was organized in 1774. Unless I am mistaken, you would be the second President in history who became an honorary member of the friendly sons."

Truman replied that in that case they could count him in and thanked his visitors for the compliment.

—THE MAN CONGRESS TRUSTS—

He didn't get in the headlines, but the man largely responsible for passage of Truman's government reorganization bill was Comptroller General Lindsay Warren, for 16 years a leading member of congress.

Not only do both Republicans and Democrats trust him, but it was Warren's forthright testimony before the Senate and House committees that brought Congress out of its lethargy. Warren watched the bill like a hen with one chick all during its progress through congress.

Three others also deserving credit are Jack Cochran of Missouri, Will Whittington of Mississippi, and Senator Abe Murdock of Utah. President Truman's friends say they wish this team could handle more of his measures.

Few people realize how sweeping the new reorganization act is. It goes beyond anything ever given Roosevelt. Result is that Truman is now on a very definite hot spot. He told congress he could do the reorganization job if given authority. Congress has now given him the authority. That authority will expire April 1, 1948. What people are now watching is whom Truman will get to advise him. If he turns the reorganization job over to political appointees, the new reorganization act will lay an egg.

FIRE DESTROYS PERRY TAVERN

Old Grange Hall Also Lost In Monday
Morning Blaze

Powers, Mich.—Fire destroyed Perry's Da-nite club in Spaulding early Monday morning. The fire is thought to have started in the basement where the furnace was located. It had been burning for some time before its discovery at 4 a. m. by roomers and help who were sleeping on the second floor. Some were forced to get out in their night apparel.

Nothing was saved in the Perry household or tavern. A sum of money, the property of Miss Anna Arnold, an employee, was lost in the fire.

The old Grange hall located north of the Perry building and used as living quarters by the Clairmont family was also destroyed and considerable damage was done to other nearby buildings from intense heat and water.

Mr. Perry arrived on the scene of the disaster at 6:30 a. m., and was unaware of the fire until his return from Escanaba at that time.

The property was partly covered by insurance.

Telephone service was out north of the old highway due to burning of a pole near the buildings.

Shower for Bride-Elect

Miss Mary Elizabeth Veever was honored at a bridal shower at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ed Veever, Sunday evening. The evening was spent in a social manner and card playing. Mr. Wallace Wells and Arnold Smiltnick rendered several selections on guitar and saxophone. Miss Veever was the recipient of an array of beautiful and useful gifts for her new home. She will become the bride of Melvin DePas of Jam Dam in the early part of January.

Lunch was served to the assembled guests.

Hermansville Boy Scouts Will Hike

Hermansville, Mich.—Boy Scouts of Troop 478 are planning an "Eclipse of the Moon Hike" for Tuesday evening, December 18. The boys will be guided on their hike by members of the newly organized Senior Scout Troop, all former members of Troop 478 of the Boy Scouts, but now organized in an outfit of their own, under the sponsorship of the North Menominee County Lions Club, and with James E. Gribble, Scoutmaster of 478 as their leader of the outfit.

The Scouts will leave on their hike before supper, will cook their supper in the outdoors and games and contests will be featured all taking place at their winter camping grounds.

The eclipse of the moon will be the first complete eclipse witnessed by the scouts since 1942 and will be an event to be remembered.

Members of the Senior Scout outfit as now organized include: Henry Lombard, Jr., James Doran, Ralph Yale, Charles Lombard, Charles Koehm Jr., and George Furick.

The senior scout outfit is the first outfit organized in Red Buck District, Hiawathaland Council, and is directed by S. N. Bradford, Red Buck district field executive.

Making Survey On Menominee Range

Carl E. Dutton, geologist and staff of the U. S. Geological Survey, is continuing geological investigations in Iron county, on the Menominee Iron range, with headquarters at Iron River, Mich. He is assisted by D. M. Lemmon and Arthur Richards, who recently joined the staff to study in the Anasa area of Iron county. F. J. Pettibohn is assigned to geological studies of the Crystal Falls and Alpha area and C. A. Lamey is making territory. L. E. Smith, is the super-dip specialist with the survey. H. L. James is the most recent addition to the technical staff on the survey on the Menominee range.

The above geological investigations are a joint cooperative plan active for the past four years between the U. S. Geological Survey and the Geological Survey Division of the Michigan Department of Conservation.

WARNS AGAINST
HOLIDAY FIRES

Chief Asks Cooperation

Of Public During

Yule Season

Many families that will be reunited this Christmas for the first time in many winters may be separated again by fire unless people are more careful than they have been in other years, Fire Chief Arvid Johnson warned yesterday in asking citizens' cooperation to prevent holiday fires.

He pointed out that December has the worst fire record of any month of the year and that many of these fires occur during the holidays.

There's no need to do away with the festivities, he said, but some precautions should be taken.

To begin with, the Christmas tree burns very easily when it is dry. So set it up in a basin of water, away from heat, open flames, or electric sockets. And put the tree where it won't block exits.

"Another thing to be careful about," continued the chief, "is the decorations used on the tree and walls. These days people can buy safe decorations, such as glass balls for the tree, metal tinsel, and flame-proofed wreaths."

Fire Chief Johnson was particularly emphatic about open flames. "Candles and unprotected fireplaces may look pretty to some people," he said, "but I call them dangerous at any time, and particularly at Christmas. Protect the fireplace with a screen, and don't use candles at all."

"Electrical decorations are safe if they are in good condition and carry the approval label of Underwriters' Laboratories and if care is taken not to overload the circuit," he continued. "Christmas wrappings left lying around are as dangerous as they are colorful so pick them up as soon as the packages are opened. Be a careful smoker, and provide plenty of ash trays for your guests. And then, just because accidents can happen in spite of everything we do, keep your fire extinguisher handy

OF COLD SNAPNot An Unmixed Curse—
Skating Rink Being
Put In Shape

Manistique, in common with the rest of the country, is in the grip of a frigid wave of unusual severity at this time of the year.

Sunday morning's low recording at the official weather station at the fire hall, was an even zero. Outlying districts to the north show that the inland areas were colder by about four degrees.

William Eck, local ice dealer, is already delivering this year's ice to patrons. The cakes, cut from the quarry pool, are about six inches thick.

Members of the street and fire department are taking advantage of the cold snap to flood the three areas designated to serve as municipal skating rinks. One of these is at the football field, one at the site of the old Hiawatha hotel in West Manistique and the other on the east end of Park avenue.

The rinks will be in readiness when school closes for the Christmas vacation next Friday.

Spent Overseas

Lt. (j.g.) Howard W. Anderson was recently honorably released from the Naval Air Corps and at present resides with his wife at Manistique. He was in service three years, nine months of which was spent overseas with Squadron VPB 28 in the Philippine area.

For distinguishing himself by meritorious acts while participating in aerial flight in the Southwest Pacific area, Lt. Anderson has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal. He also wears the Asiatic Pacific ribbon with one star, the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star, the American theater ribbon, and the Victory ribbon.

Lt. Anderson plans to attend the Aeronautical University of Chicago in February. At present he is employed with the Manistique Tool and Manufacturing company.

Will Be Guests At Noon Luncheon
February 13

The Manistique Post of the American Legion will be host to the executive committee of the Department of Michigan at a noon-day meeting when that committee makes its annual tour of the Upper Peninsula next February.

The date has been tentatively set for February 13 when the group will be guest at a noon-day luncheon, plans for which are to be made later. At this time problems of interest peculiar to this area will be taken up and discussed.

The itinerary of the group will wind up at Marquette. Schedules for the tour were arranged at a meeting at Marquette Sunday. Among those attending the Marquette meeting were Harvey Quick, Fred H. Hahne and Dr. A. R. Tucker, members of the local executive committee.

MOTOR CRASH

Miss Stella Stoor Hurt
When Car Crashes Into
Stalled Vehicle

Miss Stella Stoor, 731 Oak street, is in the Shaw hospital receiving treatment for injuries received when the car in which she was riding, driven by Kenneth Jones, owned by Miss Evelyn Mickelson, crashed into a car owned by Jerome Faketty on Highway 149 near Pavlot's early Sunday morning.

According to information given state police, the Faketty car had become stalled in the middle of the road after it had been backed out of the driveway at Pavlot's resort, and the oncoming driver was not aware of its presence until he was almost upon it and unable to stop in time.

Shortly before the accident another car had passed that way heading for town and had narrowly averted hitting the stalled vehicle.

X-ray examination of her injuries disclosed a number of fractures and she may have to be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

EYE SAVING IS WORK OF CLUB

Lions Buy Instrument To Find Defects; Eat
Venison

A Betts tele-binoocular, an instrument for screening eye defects, is being purchased by the Gladstone Lions club for use in the Gladstone schools, it was revealed at the last meeting of the club.

The meeting was marked by the annual venison feed of the club and an excellent meal was served.

Eugene Noblet was the deer-slayer this year and Gordon Smith was named to the office for 1946.

A cross section of Upper Peninsula humor was presented by Harold Lindsay, Escanaba, and several stories were told and poems read by Rose P. Davis and Lloyd Ketchum.

The Betts tele-binoocular is said to have advantages over the Snellen chart in that it tests for fusion, lateral in-balance and vertical in-balance.

In instances where eye defects are found parents or guardians of the pupils involved will be advised so that proper action may be taken.

A. C. SCOTT

A. C. Scott, one of the few executives who have devoted virtually their entire lives to motor freight transportation, has been made president of the George F. Alger Co., general offices at 3050 Lundy Rd., Detroit, it is announced by the firm.

Scott is a former resident of Gladstone. He was born here in 1899 and was graduated from the Gladstone high school in 1915 completing the usual four-year course of study in three years.

A veteran of World War I, Scott started in 1920 as a book-keeper for George F. Alger, now chairman of the board. He worked through the organization guiding its growth and expansion in various capacities, becoming executive vice president in 1940.

Scott is chairman of the Motor Carriers committee of the Detroit Board of Commerce, is a member of the Detroit Economic club, Traffic Club of Detroit, Detroit Athletic club, Lockmoor Country club and a director of the American Trucking association and chairman of the Public Relations committee of the Michigan Trucking association.

Operating interstate service in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky, with intrastate operations in Michigan, the Alger company which was started in 1917 has become one of the leading motor carriers of the middle-west. A pioneer in highway safety promotion, the Alger organization has become known as "The Lion of Champions" because of its many outstanding safety records and the many Alger drivers who have won championships in state and national competition.

AREA IN GRIP OF COLD SNAP

Not An Unmixed Curse—
Skating Rink Being
Put In Shape

Manistique, in common with the rest of the country, is in the grip of a frigid wave of unusual severity at this time of the year.

Sunday morning's low recording at the official weather station at the fire hall, was an even zero. Outlying districts to the north show that the inland areas were colder by about four degrees.

William Eck, local ice dealer, is already delivering this year's ice to patrons. The cakes, cut from the quarry pool, are about six inches thick.

Members of the street and fire department are taking advantage of the cold snap to flood the three areas designated to serve as municipal skating rinks. One of these is at the football field, one at the site of the old Hiawatha hotel in West Manistique and the other on the east end of Park avenue.

The rinks will be in readiness when school closes for the Christmas vacation next Friday.

Obituary

J. A. NELSON
Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Morton funeral home for J. A. Nelson, for many years a resident of Manistique, who died Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. S. Brazda, in Mandan, North Dakota. The Rev. Leroy Broberg, of St. Ignace, will conduct the services and interment will be in Fairview cemetery.

FIGHT WINNERS GET FREE TRIP

Peninsula Champions To Compete In Milwaukee Tournament

The winners of all weight classes in both the open and novice divisions of the upper peninsula Golden Gloves boxing tournament will qualify to represent the upper peninsula at the Milwaukee Golden Gloves tournament Feb. 12-15, with expenses to be paid by the Escanaba Lions club.

Confirmation of the Feb. 4 and 5 dates for the peninsula Golden Gloves tournament was made by the executive committee Saturday afternoon. Definite arrangements for the local site of the tournament will be completed within the next several days.

Entries for the affair, the first held since 1942, are coming in at an encouraging rate from many sections of the upper peninsula. Entries have already been officially received from Marquette, Iron Mountain, Cornell Gladstone and Escanaba with indications that virtually all cities of the peninsula will be represented when the entry list is finally completed.

Because of the fact that the Golden Gloves tournament was necessarily abandoned during the war years, the majority of the entries received thus far are in the novice division, which is confined to fighters who have not competed in more than three official bouts. It is indicated, however, that sufficient fighters will be entered in the open class to assure good matches in most if not all of the weight classes in this division.

The weight classes follow: flyweight, 112 pounds and under; bantamweight, 118 pounds and under; featherweight, 126 pounds and under; lightweight, 135 pounds and under; welterweight, 147 pounds and under; middleweight, 160 pounds and under; light heavyweight, 175 pounds and under; and heavyweight, over 175 pounds. Separate weight classes will be included for the open and novice divisions. All contestants must be 16 years of age or older and registered with the A.A.U. Registration cards, however, will be provided by the tournament committee. All bouts will be three rounds to a decision.

Trojans Meet St. Paul's Wed'y; Eskymos Play Ishpeming Friday

Both local high school basketball teams will conclude their pre-holiday schedules in away-from-home games this week. The Trojans of St. Joseph will travel to Negaunee Wednesday for a game with St. Paul's Parochial team and the Eskymos will play at Ishpeming Friday night.

The Trojans posted their first victory Saturday night, defeating Stephenson 41 to 35. Earlier last week they lost a heart-breaker to Baraga of Marquette, 40 to 39.

The Eskymos continued their undefeated record with a 40 to 30 victory over Iron Mountain Friday, the fourth consecutive victory for Escanaba. Ishpeming breezed to an easy 40 to 10 decision over Munising Friday night.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Cleveland Rams won the national pro league football championship Sunday from the Washington Redskins, 15 to 14, in a title game that will be debated by the fans for a long time to come. The Rams' freak safety, scored early in the game, when Sammy Baugh's pass from behind his own goal line hit the goal post and rebounded into the end zone. If the prep rules had been in play, the Rams actually would have scored their safety on the preceding play. Baugh fumbled the pass from center and heaved the ball recklessly to avoid being tackled behind the goal. His team was penalized for intentionally grounding the pass, but under pro rules the distance penalty was invoked from the previous spot.

The teams will play again in an exhibition affair at Los Angeles on January 10 but, of course, the results of that game will have no bearing on the league championship, which was settled on the frozen gridiron at Cleveland's Municipal stadium Sunday in zero weather. The crowd of 32,000 fans was no record breaker for a championship game but it was unusually large considering the dismal weather conditions that existed. It proved that football fans are the most hardy of all sports enthusiasts.

Track rules for Upper Peninsula meets got a going over yesterday at a meeting conducted in Escanaba by Dick Schram, Eskymos' track coach. Considerable opposition has developed to many of the track rules adopted by the state association, particularly rules affecting the qualifying of entries for the peninsula championship meet at Houghton. The state gave the upper peninsula group the green light to revise the rules for the Upper Peninsula meets to the satisfaction of the track coaches north of the straits.

The Upper Peninsula Athletic council will meet at Crystal Falls Saturday, January 5, to select the sites for the district basketball tournaments and also for the regional, or upper peninsula tournaments. The proposal to divide the championship tournaments will be aimed at that meeting with the certainty that there will be considerable support for the plan to hold the championship at two tournament sites instead of one. There also is some dissatisfaction with the present grouping of the district tournaments and that will get a going over at the meeting, also.

The Trojans basketball team will play games on every day of the week, except Monday, in the present basketball season. They have games with Felch and Munising on Tuesdays, played Baraga of Marquette on a Wednesday, play at Stephenson on Thursdays, Escanaba, Gladstone, Marquette, Stephenson, Rock and St. Paul on Saturdays and Lourdes of Marquette on Sunday, Feb. 3. It is probable that no other Upper Peninsula team has a similar schedule.

McMillin, named the coach of the year today in a poll of coaches conducted by the New York World-Telegram and picked as the sport's man of the year by the Football Writers Association of America on Saturday, referred to the touchdown he made for Centre college in its 6 to 0 upset triumph over Harvard in 1921.

"Then I had to worry about Harvard coming back to tie or beat us," he continued, "but I guess I got these for sure and can quit worrying."

The Hoosier coach of the past 11 years arrived at 8 a. m. today after boarding an early morning plane in Cincinnati and will be the guest of honor tonight at a banquet at Bear Mountain, N. Y. He will receive a scroll.

McMillin was named first on 64 of the 164 ballots cast. Col. Earl (Red) Blaik of Army, who was runner-up a year ago when Carroll, Widoos of Ohio State was named, was in second place again this year with Lou Little of Columbia third and Jimmy Phelan of St. Mary's fourth.

Much of Indiana's success in the past season, McMillin explained, was due to the unexpected return of Pete Uihos, formerly an All-Big Ten end, from army service two days before the game with Northwestern. The ex-paratrooper was converted into a fullback in 48 hours and slammed against the deadlock touchdown against the Wildcats. The tie was the only game Indiana didn't win.

"Then I had to worry about Harvard coming back to tie or beat us," he continued, "but I guess I got these for sure and can quit worrying."

The Hoosier coach of the past 11 years arrived at 8 a. m. today after boarding an early morning plane in Cincinnati and will be the guest of honor tonight at a banquet at Bear Mountain, N. Y. He will receive a scroll.

McMillin was named first on 64 of the 164 ballots cast. Col. Earl (Red) Blaik of Army, who was runner-up a year ago when Carroll, Widoos of Ohio State was named, was in second place again this year with Lou Little of Columbia third and Jimmy Phelan of St. Mary's fourth.

Much of Indiana's success in the past season, McMillin explained, was due to the unexpected return of Pete Uihos, formerly an All-Big Ten end, from army service two days before the game with Northwestern. The ex-paratrooper was converted into a fullback in 48 hours and slammed against the deadlock touchdown against the Wildcats. The tie was the only game Indiana didn't win.

McMillin, named the coach of the year today in a poll of coaches conducted by the New York World-Telegram and picked as the sport's man of the year by the Football Writers Association of America on Saturday, referred to the touchdown he made for Centre college in its 6 to 0 upset triumph over Harvard in 1921.

"Then I had to worry about Harvard coming back to tie or beat us," he continued, "but I guess I got these for sure and can quit worrying."

E. G. BENNETT TALKS TO CLUB

Industrial Opportunity
Still Here, Paper Co.
Official Says

The Escanaba Paper company and the Upper Michigan Power & Light company started as small local industries and developed through the years, which is an example of the opportunities that exist for new industries which are being encouraged to locate in the community. E. G. Bennett, vice president of the Escanaba Paper company, told the Escanaba Rotary club at its meeting yesterday noon at the Delta hotel.

Present as guests at the luncheon meeting beside Bennett were M. N. Smith, Paper company president; Stack Smith, treasurer; and R. W. Peacock, superintendent. The speaker was introduced by Atty. James E. Frost.

Bennett pointed out that the new small industries need the cooperation and encouragement of citizens of the community. Adequate labor, ample power, a proximity to markets and other factors for success exist here and industrial success should follow despite the inevitable difficulties and disappointments.

Labor Relations Friendly

The speaker traced the history and development of the two companies from the time of their establishment, described present capacities of the industries, and outlined plans for future expansion.

The Paper company's relationship with its employees through their two unions, both A. F. of L. which were organized many years ago, have been friendly, Bennett said.

"If you treat your help fairly, and if they have good living conditions in the community, turnover will be reduced to a minimum," Bennett declared. In reference to labor-management disputes rationally, the Paper company vice president added: "I have enough faith in the inherent common sense of the majority of the American people, and among the workers, to feel that in this country we have before us the biggest industrial boom in our history."

Expansion Underway

Bennett mentioned expansion projects at the Paper company plant as including the construction of a new office building, which is now under way; a paper warehouse of 2,500 tons capacity; a finishing room extension to house new equipment; and the contracting for the construction of a groundwood bleach plant which will permit the production of a whiter paper; and the building of sulphite storage facilities.

The Upper Michigan Power & Light company also is planning an addition to its power plant with an expenditure of more than $100,000 for a new steam turbine. The additional electric power to be developed will be ample for the future industrial development in the community.

Returning to the theme of local industrial opportunities, Bennett said the following factors were essential:

(1) Good industrial organization; (2) A supply of raw materials; (3) Labor satisfied with its living conditions; (4) An ample supply of power; (5) Favorable freight rates; (6) A market for the products manufactured; (7) Cooperation and encouragement from both city and rural citizens.

Public And St. Joe Schools Close Friday, St. Ann's, Wednesday

John A. Lemmer, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday that all public schools will close for the Christmas and New Year holidays with the last class on Friday afternoon, December 21, and will reopen on Monday, Jan. 7, 1946.

The St. Joseph parochial school will follow the public school schedule but St. Ann's parochial will close with Wednesday, Dec. 19 classes.

Two Pay Fines On Game Law Charges

Roy Peterson of Chicago, formerly of Rapid River, Saturday pleaded guilty in Justice Henry Ranguette's court to a charge of hunting deer with a resident license and paid a fine of $25 and costs of $9.35. He has been a resident of Chicago for the past eight years.

Albert Cloutier of 800 Nineteenth street, Escanaba, was arrested Dec. 9 for hunting deer near Watson. He was arraigned Dec. 12 before Justice E. E. Bjork of Gwinn and paid a fine of $50 and $6.85 costs.

Eben Serviceman Has Wallet Lifted While Aboard Train

An Eben Junction serviceman, Walter Coppen, reported to police officers here that his wallet containing a government check for $169 was stolen from him while he was aboard a train bound from Chicago to Escanaba.

Briefly Told

To Sing At Hospital—The Orpheus Choral club will present a program of Christmas carols at St. Francis hospital tonight. Club members will meet at 7 o'clock on the lower corridor, and will sing on each floor of the hospital.

Following the program at the hospital, members of the Orpheus club will meet in the music room of the senior high school for rehearsal.

Knights of Columbus—Regular meeting of the Knights of Columbus will be held in Gladstone tonight at 8 o'clock in the basement of All Saints school. A program has been arranged, and the Gladstone committee has planned for a large attendance. All members are urged to be present. Those desiring transportation should meet at the K. C. club rooms before 7:30.

Apply For License—Applications for marriage license have been made at the office of County Clerk J. Theodore, today by John LeDuc and Evelyn Stone of Escanaba; Robert M. Toan of Marquette and Miss Isabelle Hammerberg of Bark River.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Branstrom, Escanaba Route 1, have gone to Milwaukee where they will visit with relatives for a week.

CAMPAIGN ENDS FOR WAR FUND

Contributions Only 50%
Of Quota; Distribute
On That Basis

The United War Fund and community chest drive was pronounced officially closed yesterday following a meeting of the committee in the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office, where Carl Wickman, committee treasurer, reported receipts totaling $22,644. The quota for the county was $42,018.

A motion to apportion the amount raised to the various cooperating organizations in the War Fund drive was approved. Each of the organizations whose budgets were included in the drive will receive approximately 51 per cent.

The drive, the first which has failed to reach its quota, included the budgets of the Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, Office of Veterans Affairs, Civil Control Administration and the United War Fund.

The ending of the war and other factors were believed by the committee to be responsible for the failure to reach the quotas. It is planned by H. D. Brackett, committee chairman, to contact representatives of the local organizations and meet, possibly in January, to work out methods of financing the local organizations.

Gerald J. Cleary, member of the committee, said that a separate drive may be held in January to assist in financing the Office of Veterans Affairs.

The quotas and the contributions received from the various units in the county are as follows:

	Quotas	Receipts
Escanaba	$22,868.79	$13,700.99
Gladstone	6,750.00	4,082.85
